

Many Reservations For Canoe Carnival

The days of Old Chief David Shoppenagons and Rube Babbitt will be revived here September 1 when visitors gather from all sections of Michigan and the middle west to make the Trip Down the World-Famous AuSable River.

There won't be a Shoppenagon or a Rube Babbitt in the group of one hundred guides that pole the crafts along the winding stream but the event will call up memories of a day long past when the aged Indian chief and the loved conservation enthusiast made just such trips with visitors who traveled miles for the treat.

Young men well versed in the countryside of the vicinity, constitute the greater share of the guides today. All their lives they have lived on the famous stream and they know every bend, every landmark, every rapid and stillwater on the long trip to the end of the scheduled fifty-mile journey.

Most of the guides own a watercraft which they know as a Riverboat. It is a shallow type vessel that skims the surface at a remarkable rate of speed. It is used during the summer and fall season to convey fishermen and hunters down the stream to trout lures and hunting grounds.

The Grayling carnival starts on Saturday, August 31, to the climax Sunday with the trip down the river. A sports program is planned for the first day of the festival.

Because the trip last year taxed every boat in the community, officials in charge have asked that reservation be made early. Similarly in guarding against the possibility of a boat shortage, the committee has asked that visitors owning a canoe or boat bring the same for the trip. A guide will be furnished.

The trip starts at 7:30 a. m. Sunday morning from the Tourist Park at Grayling.

In charge are Orel Levan, Holger Peterson, Alex Atkinson and George VanPatten.

GAS TAX FIGURES REVEAL GOOD GAIN

While many indications have pointed to increases in automobile activity in this state in 1935, from the standpoint of both sales and usage, figures on gasoline tax collections for the first six months of this year show definite increase in the state government's revenue directly attributable to automobile activity. For the first six months of 1934, the Department of State turned over to the Auditor General a total of $9,734,179.28 in gasoline tax collections, while for the first half of 1935 the figure was $10,432,769.65, an increase of $698,590.37 for the period cited.

ADMIRAL BYRD'S COW COMING TO STATE FAIR

More celebrated than any cow except the one that jumped over the moon is Deerfoot Guernsey Maid, prize milk yielder of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

Arrangements were completed Saturday to have "the Maid" brought from her Massachusetts home to Detroit for the Michigan State Fair, Aug. 30 to Sept. 8.

While at the Fair the "bovine heroine of the white silences" will be milked daily in the presence of visitors—but she won't mind their stares. She has been a celebrity and a cynosure ever since she got back from Little America.

The Maid's big moments started when she arrived in Big America after spending 19 months in the polar regions.

She was given the key to the city of Washington, D. C.; she ate alfalfa from the banquet table of the Commodore hotel in New York; she mooed over the radio; she was carried about on a platform by members of the Rutgers football team; she grazed aristocratically on Boston Common (where even the Boston Cabots and Lodges can't walk on the grass); and she posed for a picture wearing a high hat placed on her head by Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts.

Deerfoot Guernsey Maid produced as high as 38 pounds of milk daily while in Little America. This output despite the fact that she was often exposed to temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero.

The Maid was five years old when she was taken to Antarctica. She is now well past seven. She gained a hundred pounds while "down south." She is a beautiful cow, according to bovine standards of pulchritude, being well contoured and orange-fawn and white in color.

The fact that the Maid still yields 18 pounds of milk daily, although she hasn't been freshened in two years, continues to amaze dairymen.

The celebrated cow will be brought to Detroit by train from her home pasture in Southboro, Mass. The trip here will be nothing at all in the life of a cow who has globe-trotted more than 20,000 miles.

While at the State Fair the Maid will be exhibited in the Dairy Building with no charge for visitors.

Hollywood Bound Was Clever Affair

KIWANIS BOY SCOUT FUND BENEFITED

"Hollywood Bound," produced by Mr. Robinson of the Robinson School of dancing, Traverse City, with a cast of 40 clever youngsters, given at the school auditorium last Thursday night, was one of the best amateur entertainments that ever came to Grayling.

Forty youngsters, all well trained, performed like professionals. The program was varied and cleverly arranged and throughout the entire performance the audience was delightfully entertained. There were tap dancing, buck-and-wing dancing, acrobatic dancing and clever acrobatic and contortion numbers. Indeed, we don't know how professionals could have done any better than some of these young students.

The presentation was so clean and so artistic that it was decidedly refreshing. And it was put on with snap and there were no tiresome waits as might be expected from children ranging from 3 to 15 years in age. It was sponsored by the Grayling Kiwanis club as a benefit for their Boy Scout fund, which received a nice profit.

The success of the Robinson School of Dancing at Traverse City has been so excellent that many of our Grayling families are endeavoring to get them to arrange for classes here each week. It is expected that this will be done.

"I love a storm," said Molly Michelson recently, and listening in while lightning flashed and thunder rolled and the winds blew, as a storm let itself loose at Lake Margrethe, she wrote the following interesting poem:

SYMPHONY

This day the greatest music has been played
Writ in large symbols by God's very hand
In wind and water and the vibrant land.
The pine-tops breathed in sighs to softly fade
As sun-fleck's tease veiled into threatening shade
And far-off rumblings quaked the fitful sand.
Then closer tinkled leaves by waked winds fanned
And drums were measured as the water swayed.
A crash burst through the expectant, waiting air
As ripped in twain a darkly lowered cloud
That pieced its jagged rent with fiery flare
And startled all the forest to a loud
Twang of its strings and to a mighty blare
Of all its instruments as if a proud.

And courted monarch passed and it would raise
With heraldings and fanfare that befit
A crowned and conquering hero who should sit
In gilded pomp its note of gloried praise.
Then with a steadied mete and solemn phrase
A thousand-throated choir seemed to pit
A gathering strength and swelling to emit
A voice stupendous in its chorused maze.
Now with a chanted psalm—a passion prayer
Now came a death-moan and a birth-cry roar
A blood-lust rabble roared as hatreds tear
Their cloaks at tyrannies and seek to vent
A prisoned fury at a beggared share.
O this is music most magnificent!

Its force had spent and yet the storm would sing:
I heard a love-song and a lullabye,
A mate-call, and a mate gave answering cry:
Through raindrops came the sun its bow to fling
In opaled ribbons of its prismatic;
The tired trees grew still and in reply
To the warm sun no longer would defy
A wearying wind; and birds came forth to wing
And trill in obligato and to press
Impatiently the fragrant air—to see
Nature in dewy green and sunlit dress.
Such tone such choir such orchestra has she!
Yet never may her music be unless
An ear's attuned to catch its harmony.

—Mollie Michelson.

Many Attend Flint Legion Convention

Returning Monday Legionaires and their wives reported one of the best conventions in the history of the state the 17th annual at Flint, beginning Friday and closing Monday. Alfred Hanson and John Erkes delegates left Friday to be there for the opening meeting and were followed the next day by most of the members of the drum and bugle corps and several of the Auxiliary members. The Durant hotel was headquarters.

Flint being centrally located, there was an extra large crowd in attendance at the convention, and 75,000 viewed the big parade on Monday afternoon. The only big disappointment to Grayling folks was that the local Legion Drum and Bugle corps did not get into the parade. They felt that they should have uniforms and so gave up the idea of entering but have come home very much put out.

Benton Harbor and St. Joe on Lake Michigan will jointly be hosts at the 1936 convention, and David V. Addy, Detroit was elected department commander to succeed Lester O. Moody of Port Huron. Alfred Hanson who was unanimously selected recently at a Tenth district meeting to represent his district as committeeman, received his official credentials as a staff officer to succeed Leslie Stonehouse of Bay City.

Those who attended from Grayling were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hanson Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Wythe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinker, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Jorgenson, Mr. and Mrs. Oral Levan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Skingley, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rasmussen, Miss Frances Vulek, Calvin Church, Walter Felke, Isaac Gendron, Harold Hatfield, Clarence Johnson, Wilfred Laurant, Harold McNeven, John McMillan, Neil McDaniels, Julius Paul, Harry Sorenson, Clement Blaine, Earl Wood, Harold Edwards, William Wythe, Junior McNamara, John Erkes, Alvin LaChapelle, A. E. Wendt.

Action Expected On Optional Lands

A number of farm owners in Northern Michigan, many of whom live in Crawford and Roscommon counties, have within the past 8 months optioned their land to the Land Policy Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Considerable delay in the acceptance of these options has been partly due to the transfer of the options from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to the Resettlement Administration who now has the responsibility of acceptance of the options and the development of the lands acquired. Word has been received this week from the Resettlement Administration that funds have been allocated to the Project office at Grayling, to take care of all options obtained up to the present date. The Project manager reports that he anticipates a very prompt action from the Washington office on practically all options submitted.

Two Values of Books
Two of the values of books are as stores of information and as savers of brain waste.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Golf Club enjoyed their final pot luck luncheon Wednesday afternoon.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Roy Milnes, Mrs. A. J. Joseph was made temporary chairman of the business meeting. Election of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following result: Pres., Mrs. C. R. Keyport; Vice Pres., Miss Margrethe Bauman; Sec., Mrs. Roy Trudgen; Treas., Mrs. Oscar Hanson.

Labor Day the ladies and gentlemen will have a pot luck dinner at the club house. At that time prizes will be presented to the winners of the golf matches.

The final games in the bridge tournaments was played Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. George Kraus won the contract finals and Mrs. Esbern Hanson the auction finals.

Grayling golfers evened the score with Gaylord Sunday when the locals garnered 35 points while their guests had to be content with 28. Except for threatening rain, it was an ideal day for golf and everyone had a good time. Gaylord's 21 players were matched with a like number of Grayling players.

SOMETHING NEW

Two commercial travelers met in the street.
"Hello, old chap," said Grey, "you look upset! Anything wrong?"
Grey pulled himself together with an effort.

"Just called on Brown," he said. "A most trying five minutes! Never been so insulted in all my life!"
"Well, I am surprised!" said Grey. "I've never once, in all my years on the road, been insulted. Of course, I've had doors slammed on me, I've even had my samples thrown out of a shop. I've been kicked into the street, but never insulted—never." — Vancouver Province.

"Your letters will be footprints on the sands of time."
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I'm afraid they will also be disclosures of where my foot slipped once or twice."

THOMAS CONLIN

Thomas Conlin, editor of the Diamond Drill, Crystal Falls, died at his home last Saturday. Funeral services were held Wednesday. He was 69 years old. This removes from among Michigan's newspaper publishers and editors one who stood in the front rank as a journalist. He was a deep thinker and a keen editorial commentator. Many of his writings were reprinted by the Avalanche and other newspapers. The Diamond Drill has been one of the sources we have depended upon for information on public matters. There is nobody who can take Mr. Conlin's place in that respect, and we already keenly feel the loss.

As to Mr. Conlin personally, to know him was to love him. He was fine. One couldn't see enough of him. It made no difference as to how occupied he was, he always had that kindly smile. He was a ready listener to what people had to say and always kindly in his comments. There was no middle road for him and there was no mistaking where he stood on public matters. He was a power for what he believed to be the right but never offensive toward those with whom he could not agree.

He was a member of the State Prison commission and had served 12 years as a member of the Newberry State hospital board, and was vice president of the Michigan Press Association.

He leaves a son, Thomas, Jr., of Reed City; a daughter Mrs. M. S. Smith of Crystal Falls; his widow and a niece, Miss Marian Carter who had lived in the Conlin home for 15 years.

The men who make their living selling automobiles know what it takes to put a car on its best behavior. So the fact that a big majority of them go for Standard's Live Power gasoline should be a good tip for you. After all, it stands to reason that a motor fuel which delivers more live, fast-working power to an engine is the gasoline that will get out of a car the maximum performance that the car makers built into it. You'll find that's true no matter what make or age of car you drive—when you take on a tankful of real Live Power—

Question Box By ED WYNN The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have a puzzle for you to solve for me. I like to bet on horse races but always break about even. Here's how it is: One day I win but the next day I lose. What can I do? Yours truly,

Answer: That is very simple. In play every other day.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My father says it costs from $3 to $5 to have a tooth pulled by gas. Don't you think it could be done cheaper if the dentists used kerosene?

Yours truly, A. KEETOOTH.

Answer: If you're not having the tooth pulled, why worry?

Dear Mr. Wynn: We are a New York family, and my son, who has just graduated from high school, is preparing for college. I asked him what course he intends to study, and he says he thinks there is a great field for civil engineers. Do you agree with him? Yours truly,

I. M. A. BRAKEMAN.

Answer: What New York really needs is civil taxicab drivers.

Dear Mr. Wynn: Can you help me? For the past two weeks I have been despondent and have the most peculiar feeling. Sometimes I sit in a chair for hours and suddenly something within me seems to rise, then go down again, and a little later it rises again. What do you think is the matter with me? Sincerely,

WRIGHT MESOON.

Answer: From your description, I should say you swallowed an elevator.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a man forty-nine years of age. I have traveled all over the world and have just returned to settle down in America. I have a big problem to solve first. I have spent nearly all my money, but still have enough, if properly invested, to keep me for the rest of my life. I think I have a bright idea. I intend opening a school for "stuttering." What do you think of my idea? Truly yours,

IGO BACKEN FORTH.

Answer: Your idea is all right, but who wants to go to school to learn to stutter?

CONTROL OF CREDIT A BASIC QUESTION

Economist Describes Conflict Between Opposing Social Views on Central Bank

Agitation for government banking is a phase of the conflict between our present "personal competitive enterprise system" in America and the "compulsory state-collective security system" of several European States, Virgil Jordan, President National Industrial Conference Board, says in "Banking" published by the American Bankers Association.

"They involve irreconcilable principles of human conduct and philosophy of life and the conflict between them is the key to the economic, social and political struggles of today," Mr. Jordan says.

"The enterprise system of which the development of the United States has been the unparalleled example, depends for its motive power of progress upon the inexhaustible reservoir of energy in individual desire for personal advancement in prosperity. But it guarantees nothing to the individual save freedom of opportunity," the article says.

The collectivist security system, he says, "places all emphasis upon the maintenance of a minimum standard of living for the mass without regard to the creative power of the individual. Quite simply the security system involves the modern form of the philosophy of the slave society." He continues:

A Sign of the Times

"The many-sided movement toward governmental banking, deposit insurance and currency management is the most direct and decisive expression of the universal instinctive search for security which is the sign of the times. In America our so-called social security legislation is an important indication of the drift away from the enterprise system toward a collectivist security system with concentration of authority in a Federal government."

"The nationalization of credit is crucial and indispensable for complete state control of the complex industrial and business structure of this country. The drive toward government banking and monetary control is most determined because the relation of the state to credit goes to the root of the enterprise system. A collective security system is inconceivable without nationalization of credit. An enterprise system is inconceivable with it."

"Under a collective security system, based on government banking the controls 'lie solely in the hands of a few persons and depend upon their judgment, will or caprice.' Mr. Jordan says, adding that it is they who must determine 'upon the basis of some predetermined plan or upon pure political expediency of the moment, what lines of industry and even what individual enterprises shall have the credit.'"

"Every government is an organ of party power and must respond to the will of the party that put it in power," the Jordan article says. "Under unchecked government operation it is an inescapable tendency of every currency to depreciate and for credit to expand. However much it may be in the interest of the nation, deflation is too dangerous politically for any government."

"In the end government banking and currency management resolve themselves simply into the use of 'credit as a political instrument of power, and this instrument tends to be used in the long run for expropriation of the community's savings.'"

THE FARM BUDGET

By DAN H. OTIS, Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

Inventories aid in the formation of a farm budget. Some banks, as well as the Farm Credit Administration, recommend outlining in advance the method of using production loans. Under this plan provision is made for monthly expenditures and funds are granted to the borrower in accordance with the budget plan. Budgets help show how loans can be repaid.

With the accumulated data from previous inventories and budgets budget making becomes easier and more accurate and valuable. As one branch of the farming plant requires more expenditure, such as for new machinery, fencing, livestock, etc. it may be necessary to limit others to meet pressing requirements.

The budget helps to formulate a financial program. It is of special importance in arranging to meet special or large expenditures. If the income and expenditures are carefully budgeted it prevents the spending of money needed for interest and taxes before the time of payment.

The Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association feels that this type of work is so important that special emphasis has been placed upon the field of farm inventories, budgets and credit statements as one of its national projects for farm aid.

ONE SUMMER NIGHT

By ANNE CAMPBELL

SITTING beside you on the cool gray stone, I saw through your dear eyes the summer night. The trees were shadowy, their dark leaves blown By perfumed breezes . . . In the misty light Of the far moon, I caught the pure white gleam Or your loved profile . . . With your quiet gaze Turned on the stars, lost in a happy dream, You wandered far from earth's perplexing ways.

I saw the world beyond you . . . reaching space, The silhouette of trees against the sky . . . And knew that nothing counted but your face. You were my world . . . The moon that rode so high. The stars, as lost as I in mists of blue, Were nothing. There was only love and you.

One of the simplest astringent treatments and one which is particularly refreshing to the face is a lemon and water rinse. The water should be as cold as possible—even slide a piece of ice into the basin—with the juice of two lemons added. Splash this ice-cold lemon-and-water mixture over your face ten or more times.

For Informal Hours

When she has nothing in particular to do, Ann Sheridan wears a washable cotton dress—like this white cotton broadcloth with a crossbar pattern in brown and red. A kerchief tie of brown linen matches a belt of the same material, supplying the necessary contrast.

THE BUTTERFLY

By ANNE CAMPBELL

I HAD been in the kitchen half the day,
Cleaning the cupboard, making the room fair.
When hands are busy, hours fly away.
And it was noon before I was aware.

Weary before the open door I stood,
Looking at my own patch of homely green,
When I was joined in my brief solitude
By a brown butterfly, with golden sheen.

I was transported on its gauzy wings
Far from the sordid tasks of everyday.
Intangible but high imaginings
Captured thoughts and bore me far away.

There was my early home, the open door,
The locust tree, the garden rich
in blooms;
The sunlight on the whitely scrubbed
pine floor,
And heaven lending peace to little rooms.

From toll there is escape. The drab
cocoon
Of ordinary day cannot hold fast
The thoughts that soar like butterflies in June,
And find their way to God's blue lanes at last.

It is gratifying to see the many weekly and daily newspapers carrying articles about the Grayling Canoe carnival that is to be held here next Sunday. Our neighboring newspapers have been particularly nice about giving this event some of their valuable space. The carnival, which has developed into an annual affair, is another of those non-profit affairs put on by our young men, assisted by our business men. It's a lot of hard work to put over the Canoe Carnival and doesn't profit anyone financially, but the affair has been so splendid that the public is now demanding its continuance.

How Fish Breathe
Fish breathe by means of gills, which represent the greatest departure in adaptation of the animal to an aquatic environment. Lifting the opercular, the covering over the gills, four pairs of red fringe-like bodies are exposed. On either side of the throat just behind the mouth cavity there are four more or less crescent-shaped bones, the gill arches, each of which bears two gill processes. Being rightly supplied with blood, the gills offer surface for gas exchanges, oxygen, dissolved in water, being taken in and distributed over the body, while the blood, relieved of its carbonic acid gas charge, passes directly into the water.

A grateful public is paying its taxes and saving its homes

FROM all parts of the state come gratifying reports of the way the Michigan public is responding to the current tax-collection drive. Men and women everywhere are determined to save their homes, and benefit by the savings that a thoughtful legislature has provided.

Few indeed are the property-owners who cannot now pay their back taxes, either in full or on the ten-year plan.

If you have not yet made arrangements to take care of your back taxes SEE YOUR COUNTY TREASURER AT ONCE. Bring him your old tax-bills, or at any rate, the legal description of your property. He will tell you quickly the amount that you owe and advise you as to how you may meet this important obligation. Upon request he will give you a descriptive folder that tells in simple terms just what you must do to save your home.

REMEMBER! September first is the last day on which you can pay your back taxes for 1932 and prior years without interest or penalties. It is also the last day on which you can put these taxes on the "TEN-YEAR PLAN" without incurring additional interest. ACT NOW. Delay is dangerous.

By co-operating with your state in this far-flung tax-collection drive you SAVE YOUR HOME, SAVE 27% TO 45% AND EVEN MORE in interest and penalties, and save yourself from worry over the possibility of losing your home. ACT NOW. Help yourself while helping your State, County, City, Village, Township and Schools.
